THE LAST WILL AND TESTAMENT

OF

ALEXANDER LIM TZE LIANG

CREATED ON 8th MAY 2026

Document Framework created using Will&Way. (willway.sg)
Will & Way is an independent digital estate planning interface. This document does not constitute formal legal advice. For specialized cross-border or complex tax structures, consultation with a qualified legal practitioner is recommended.

1. STEP-BY-STEP EXECUTION PROTOCOL

> Action Required: Follow these precise compliance measures to guarantee the legal enforceability of this portfolio under Singapore jurisdiction.

1.1 Document Verification & Physical Binding: Prior to signature, thoroughly review all clauses. To satisfy standard evidentiary criteria and prevent subsequent modification or page substitution, all printed pages must be permanently fastened down the left margin utilizing a secure binding standard (e.g., thermal binding or heavy-duty staples).

1.2 The Attestation Ceremony: You must execute this document in the simultaneous presence of two independent adult witnesses. To maintain full validity, neither witness may be a named beneficiary, an executive appointee with financial interest, or the legal spouse of any such person.

1.3 Affixing Signatures: The Testator must sign the foot of every individual page within the allocated signature allowance zones. Once complete, both witnesses must concurrently insert their physical signatures, full names, addresses, and identification markers on the final attestation deck.

2. ESSENTIAL SINGAPORE STATUTORY PRINCIPLES

> Legal Parameters: Understanding the operation of non-estate assets and life events under the Wills Act (Cap. 352).

2.1 Impact of Subsequent Marriage: Pursuant to statutory standards, any marriage or remarriage entered into after the formal signing of this document will automatically revoke this Will by operation of law, unless explicitly documented as being drafted in contemplation of that specific marriage.

2.2 The Principle of Joint Survivorship: Real property or bank holdings registered under a "Joint Tenancy" framework operate via survivorship. Upon demise, ownership flows seamlessly to the surviving co-owner and cannot be redirected through testamentary distribution clauses.

2.3 Separation of Central Provident Fund (CPF): Your CPF savings are strictly isolated from estate distribution under a Will. These funds are allocated entirely according to your separate mandate lodged directly with the CPF Board. Insurance arrangements with established statutory nominations will similarly override this instrument.

3. TESTAMENTARY DECLARATIONS & FAMILY STRUCTURE

> Purpose: Explicitly establishes the identity of the Testator, status of immediate kin, and revokes prior legal instruments.
